ABSTRACT

The full CG trailer is an impression of the events during the occupation of the Italian territory by German troops. Building faithful models of the weapons and vehicles required the use of mapping. To give the viewer a sense of authenticity, we carried out mocap sessions and we used 3D scans of actors' silhouettes and faces to create the proper models. Every single element of the set - costumes, explosion, movement, and each facial expression was designed individually. All materials were prepared by our team. The customer was involved in the works on the script and was responsible for the final sound of the film.
